Richard

Thanks for getting back to me. I expected you would contact MDU or MPS - I would the other way around. I expected them to say what they have said. What was less clear was whether you would then do anything. A lot of people would simply not have responded at all.

The situation is not one that MDU have ever dealt with before and if only for that reason a default no comment is to be expected. But it is not a good option for the Morgans or you - particularly as I am not asking you to make a comment.

What I was hoping to do was to fill you in on things that you and colleagues will be largely unaware of and that put you at some jeopardy - not in this case but potentially following other adverse events on other drugs. I didn't and don't want you or your colleagues to offer a single comment about the case or about anything else. My intention was to appraise you of some issues - leaving you and your colleagues a chance to ask some further questions to help you clarify for yourselves just what you think I'm saying.

One way forward is for me to email you some correspondence with Vaughan Gething, Frank Atherton and NICE and let you look through it. If any of your colleagues then have questions about the material and any of them want to ask me questions about the material or me, I'd be happy to engage in such a call. You don't even have to be on the call.

The issues are ones that I am sure you and your colleagues will feel are pertinent to how you practice and they are issues that contribute to unfortunate outcomes of the kind you've seen in the Morgan case. More to the point - you and your colleagues - are better placed than almost any other set of doctors could be to make a difference.

The correspondence is attached. There is a good deal of earlier correspondence sent to VG about these issues that I can send if interested to chase further.

David
